The "Revolution" that caused the biggest stir was #9 from the "White" album. The talk was that "Revolution #9" " s really a reference to the Ninth Book of Revelation, a Biblical prediction of hippies, what with all the talk of grass, smoke and men with the hair of women.

I wonder what David Koresh had to say about that.

John Lennon, who wrote "Revolution," "Revolution #2," and "Revolution Numba Nyan," hit the bulls-eye years later with "Imagine," "Working Class Hero," "Give Peace a Chance," and "Power to thu People," which earned him a place on Nixon's "Enemies List," and made him a victim of a conspiracy by J. Edgar Hoover and the good old boyz 'n the FBI.
