After We the People overthrow the current corrupt government we'll put in its place...the IDENTICAL Constitution with the IDENTICAL Bill of Rights.

There is nothing wrong with the theory or form of our government, just its practice. The government has been taken over, (legally, tho not morally,) by the corrupting influence of Big Money. Today a tiny number of wealthy individuals have power waaay out of proportion to their number as a result of their willingness to pay off the corrupt professional politicians to pass laws that benefit them. As a result of this, the rich get richer and the poor get guns.

Revolution is inevitable, get used to the idea, James, and invest in gold. Its all coming crashing down.

That's why the ruling class is trying so hard to get rid of guns. Each and every one of them knows there is a bullet out here with their name on it. And they also know, but will never admit it publicly, that We the People have a RIGHT to violent Revolution, the same Right We began exercising on April 19,1775. As a tactical matter it won't be difficult to pick them off, particularly in their favorite gathering spots. They have been committing genocide against us ever since Governor Rockefeller signed the first abortion law and they've developed many other tactics since, including economic warfare against the poor and middle-class pitting these groups against one another, promoting racial hatred to keep US from uniting against THEM, and the use of unjust drug laws to put away potential "Minutemen" for long periods of time.

America was meant to be a middle-class country. But the concentration of wealth in Wall Street is just as injurious to the People as is the concentration of power in Washington. The American People have been deliberately fragmented by the Washington/Wall Street Axis in an attempt to deny Democracy its Constitutional place in our lives. The new Oligarchy is using its wealth and power against us in order to maintain its power and wealth.

Soon we will awaken and see that it is not necessary to have such a class rule over us. The People will use their GOD-given Right to Revolution and quickly bring justice and prosperity back to this great Nation. When the 95% realize they are being royally screwed by the 5% they'll take whatever action is needed to win back our Freedom. Or as Benj. Franklin put it (speaking of treason) we'll all hang separately if we don't hang together. Americans have proved able to come together in the past and we will again in the near future. An economic collapse is around the corner and that will trigger the Revolution that will re-assert economic justice and prosperity for ALL, (not just the politically connected.)

They also concluded that anyone pushing violent overthrow of the federal government was guilty of treason, and could be put to death. But my recommendation to you, Rickie, is that if you really don't like our constitutional government, why don't you pack your bags and head on out to some other country where you would feel more comfortable? You see, Rickie, the problem with your particular theory is that, if YOU have the right to overthrow or our government or ignore its laws and institutions (rather than working within the system to change things) when YOU think they are out of line, then EVERYONE ELSE also has the right to interpret or disobey the laws as THEY SEE FIT, under the particular circumstances of the time. In other words, the gangs in South LA would have the right to ignore laws and government agencies when THEY thought justice wasn't being served, and the various militia groups would have the right to do so when THEY thought justice wasn't being served, etc, etc. Under YOUR system, who or what is going to decide when the government isn't respecting our rights? What if I lived under your system (whatever it turns out to be) and I decided that YOUR government wasn't respecting MY rights under MY interpretation of "natural law?" What then--

As I said, you just might find some other country more to your liking. But if you are going to stay here and advocate revolution and overthrow of government agencies you don't agree with, and make your own judicial decisions, and kick out the judicial system we have, then you had d--- well better tell us what you are going to put in its place.

The Constitution is certainly important, but this Nation called America is actually based on the Declaration of Independence. That's where we started, that's our Statement of Principle.

And Natural Law, as understood by the Founders, takes precedence over man-made law.

The Declaration says quite clearly that whenever ANY government abuses the Right of the People to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, it is the Right of the People to alter or abolish that government and start a new one. "Alter or abolish" means Revolution, and more to the point, VIOLENT Revolution. When those words were written and endorsed we had been engaged in violent Revolution against the ruling class for more than a year. We were shooting the enemy on a regular basis.

Fighting like a Native American our embattled farmers would appear at the edge of a wood and pick off the leader of a British column and then disappear down trails only he knows.

There can be no doubt that the Founders believed this and enshrined the Right to Revolution in the Declaration and the MEANS for Revolution in the Second Amendment.
