Its silly to spend billions of taxpayer money policing the border.

The undocumented workers come here to make money. If we criminalize the act of employing these People, with big fines and jail terms, the employers will no longer hire thth, and they will no longer make money so they won't come.

But the employers pay off the politicians who then portray Mexicans as the problem. A few years ago Pete Wilson was doing his best to provide this labor for California employers, but now he gets more votes and contributions by being a bigoted hypocrite.

Simply drying up the source of jobs with fines and jail terms will accomplish the desired goal without massive monetary outlays.

How about a cashless society? That would really work. Improve the tax income for the feds also. Take care of the drug problem.
