It has to do with the desire to conform. People are trained at an early age to "fit in" and to shun those who won't.

The government and its controllers in the Wall Street ruling class certainly know this and encourage this to facilitate the administration of a quarter billion formerly free Americans.

Americans seem to do more role playing than actual thinking but this is because we are a trusting People easily led astray by the smiling politician we see on TV. But soon we will wake up and stop playing Republicrats and start smiling Independent.

I know what you mean about the 18th being a different century than the current one. Back then People said:

"Give me Liberty, or give me death!"

Nowadays the sheeple say: "Go ahead and enslave me,
I just want to live."

People don't flee from here because there's nowhere to go. We're the end of the line. Liberty is lost to the World when Tyranny defeats America.

I've corrected my excerpt from the Battle Hymn by indicating that the word, "live," is substituted. Why have I written it this way? Because we're not in war, and we don't want war - we don't want death. We're talking about our fellow Americans here; yes, most of them are sheeple, but that certainly doesn't justify advocating anything which might bring harm to them. I'm saying, let us LIVE to make them free, because we are spreading the truth, and we are encouraging people to go discover the truth for themselves and do their own thinking.

I understand what you're saying about the Declaration of Independence, and I agree with you about its meaning - as it pertained in the 18th Century. Remember, people fled from England back then to get away from the tyranny and despotism of the King -- well, how many people do you see fleeing from the tyranny and despotism here? My point is that the general populace back then was ALREADY in the mindset that they wanted independence from their government, while today, most Americans are so complacent and apathetic that they don't even realize something's wrong - much less do they want to do anything about it. You HAVE to have the support of the people, before any sort of revolution (violent or otherwise) could even begin to be effective.

Joanne, ALL Americans are Patriots, though most don't know it (yet.) The ruling class seeks to mislead the People by publicizing the actions and words of the paranoid and racist militias while ignoring the vast majority of militias that are rational, well spoken and genuinely concerned with the well being of ALL Americans.

The ruling class wants to keep us divided because they know how POWERFUL the militias will become once they shuck racism and embrace traditional American tolerance. A rural-urban juggernaut will do wonders to defeat the New World Order.

Joanne, Historians agree that the Revolution had only the active support of a third of the colonists. One third remained loyal and the other third just wanted to be left alone. It was the quality of the opposition that made it effective. Quality overpowers quantity every time.

The militias and all other Patriotic Americans will be successful ONLY if we all realize we're all in this together, we are all being oppressed by the same ruling class, tho in different ways. In unity there is strength and We the People will triumph again IF we look beyond mere particulars like skin color and religion and ethnicity and sexual orientation and class and all the other categories the ruling class uses to divide us, and see we all have a common interest in Revolution. Revolution will benefit the 90%+ of Americans who are not members of the ruling class. Even the hangers-on will benefit because we'll always need their "skills."

But we have to all get along. That's the key.

Andrew,

You're thinking in terms of the Constitution.
I'm thinking in terms of Natural Law.

Of course you're not going to see reason for offense. The Constitution is a DEFENSIVE document, it PROTECTS us from political predators, (or at least it used to.)

But in order to get to that GREAT WALL of AMERICA, we had to visit and adopt Natural Law, as expressed in the Declaration of Independence. This Law comes from God and is so attested by 55 signatories. The Document states the immutable Right to self-political-defense held by ALL People, and this Defense may be violent if repeated injuries and usurpations can be proved to a candide world.

The Revolution was Defensive in that it delivered us from an imposition of Tyranny. (The Document states that it was BELIEVED that a design for Despotism and Tyranny was afoot, but it hadn't arrived yet.) The best Defense, of course, is a good Offense, and to the ruling class of the time we were VERY offensive. We won and it was our RIGHT to win! We had God on our side and we thanked God by creating a Godly Nation, but that Nation WAS born in blood.

THEN we created the Constitution as a bulwark, or bull-Wall, against any encroaching Tyranny. There was a wall in lower Manhattan that protected the early settlers from a dangerous outside world, and it became Wall Street and it was good because it aided the rational distribution of wealth. But over time this bulwark began to break down and Wall Street BECAME the outside world. Concentrated wealth led to concentrated power, which leads to Despotism.

We have a Right to take the bull by the horns and use force to maintain our Freedom.

How can you possibly try to trump me with the Battle Hymn of the Republic? Not only your interpretation, but the line you quote is wrong!

"As he died to make men holy, let us DIE to make men free," (my emphasis.) It was, after all, a call to arms: A Battle Hymn. It has images of serpents crushed with heels, fateful lightning and a terrible swift sword. It even has judgement day and the grapes of wrath (which fermented into a fine wine, vintage Great Depression.) And that's the TRUTH!

Joanne,

The Declaration of Independencm#created the Nation.
The Constitution merely established the government.
The government is now being used against the People.
The People have the right to "throw off such government."

The Constitution is a wonderful idea but it has been usurped by the ruling class. We the People need to take back the government and make it responsive to the needs of the MAJORITY, not just the wealthy. There is nothing wrong with violence. Violence against authority is a traditional American value, OLDER than either the Declaration or the Constitution. Its what gave us freedom so its nothing to be embarrassed about.

Looks like you let the ruling class to get you in a double bind, damned if you do, damned if you don't:

If you engage in violence you lose MORE freedom and liberty. If you DON'T engage in violence you continue to lose freedom and liberty at the steady pace of the last severa~ decades.

The ruling class loves it. They got the money; they got the politicians; they got law enforcement.

But We the People have Right on our side. We have history, precedent and logic to win with. And best of all, we have the Declaration of Independence as an unalienable and unpenetrable shield.

When ANY government becomes destructive of the Right of the People to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, it is our Right to alter or abolish it and create a new government that serves ALL the People (not just the wealthy and connected.)

Alter or abolish means Revolution and it means VIOLENT Revolution, but I'm afraid you have succumbed to 30 years of ruling class propaganda that seeks to deprive the oppressed of knowledge of their fail-safe, their ace in the hole, their Right to violently oppose their oppressor.

We're losing our freedom because too few today are willing to risk their Lives, their Fortunes and their sacred Honor.

The ruling class controls about 90% of the wealth of America but numbers only 5-10% of the population (including the hangers-on.) They know perfectly well they could never survive a direct confrontation with a well armed populace and they know the true meaning of posse comitatus: ANY government that NEEDS to use the regular army against the People has lost its legitimacy. If the People are outraged enough and strong enough to organize and rise up in arms against the government then that government has LOST the "consent of the governed." The People in communist countries were/are held at bayonet point simply to prevent them from exercising their GOD-GIVEN Right to self determination (as expressed in the Declaration of Independence.)

The STYLE of oppression today is different (heavy on the PR) than it has been elsewhere in history, but it is STILL oppression. The ruling class gets away with it because we LET them get away with it. The ruling class desperately tries to conceal its Achilles' Heel, its vulnerability to violence, and that is exactly where we need to strike to re-establish liberty and prosperity in this Land.

By using the word "terrorist" you are showing how well trained the ruling class has made you. By subscribing to their world view you've rendered yourself harmless. That's exactly what they want, a Nation of polite, compliant sheeple.

Americans are FREEDOM FIGHTERS. We've fought and died for freedom around the world so why are we so shy to do the same on our own soil? Andrew, we both know that America can never be conquered militarily. Therefore, anyone who wants to do us in has to figure out a non-violent (non-obvious) plan.

Another revisionist historian rears his ugly politically correct head! The embattled farmers at the Concord bridge on April 19, 1775 were TERRORISTS? Next you'll say so was the French Resistance.
