Honestly I didn't pay much attention at all after the first 1/2 hr. when I saw where they were headed with it. The only disclaimer I noticed was that it was "based" on the book "And Every Knee Shall Bow" which itself was "based" on a true story. Not much of a history lesson, but darn good material to teach what to look out for from a biased media.

Did you happen to hear LP's name being mentioned in all this? I sure didn't. There was nothing in the credits at the end of the actors who played the minor characters, but one thing really grabbed my attention. The last actor listed was a Bruce Locke who played a "Ken Yamasaki." Was this supposed to be Lon Hirouchi? Did you see a disclaimer saying "the names have been changed to protect the guilty?" I sure didn't. I noticed he didn't appear at the Senate hearing either, so I guess a phone call or two was made to the producer.

Well, almost. The disclaimer was "Based on the book 'And Every Knee Shall Bow' which was based on a true story. Got pretty much distorted between the real and the finish IMHO.

Heheh- I'd like that... a lot. And when all is done and said, because I AM careful about how I handle such matters, maybe he won't be quite as rich as he usta' be.
Good advice tho' for the unwary. And ever so true.

Better watch out who you send letters to.

If you address some executive with disrespect he's liable to run to the FBI claiming you are harassing, stalking and threatening him and since he's wealthy and politically connected the FBI will give its traditional "Sieg Heil" and go after YOU for your impertinence. They'll "interview" your friends and associates and by doing so subtly spread the rumor that you are unstable and perhaps criminal. And, of course, your name will be entered into their computer only to show up later who knows where as being a "suspect" in an FBI "investigation," while the exec laughs knowing the best god durned law "enforcement" agency in the world has done some dirty work for him. After all, that's what he pays taxes for.

Better keep a low profile George, and do your complaining on the BB's. I'm shure Big Brother doesn't monitor Prodigy.

Its important to remember those who profit by such lies are the monied elite that sponsors this trash. The Justice Department, whether under Bush, Clinton or Dole, serves the New World Order and Wall Street is the chief bastion in America. Without the commercials there'd be no lies.

So, by buying the advertised products we Americans are subsidizing our own enslavement. That there are so many spineless, mush-minded Americans only encourages the enemy.

They used a disclaimer: "Based on a true story."

That's to make us yokels think that what we're seeing is the actual historical truth.

But that "base" is just the starting point for a wild flight of propoganda. They don't say it is "Grounded in truth."

Its like saying the current U.S. government is "based" on the Constitution. Oh, the Constitution is there all right, buried under a mountain of self serving lies and power grabbing by the ruling class, and bum rulings by the political appointees on the Supreme Court. But buried it is.

The genre of this program is "docu-drama," which means a fictionalized account of an incident portrayed in a hyper-realistic manner to confuse the viewer that what he is seeing is the objective truth.

Since when does the government, Wall Street or Madison Avenue want the People to know the truth? If we knew the truth, we'd kill 'em all.

Keep a careful record of the names of those responsible for producing and sponsoring this BS.

Adler was sensitive to matters of government tyranny due to his experience as a child escaping from Hungary with his family in '56. He knows what it means when the tanks roll, whether in Budapest or Waco.

Americans back then applauded the workers and students who were killing communists. I wonder if Hungarians today would return the favor if we have to kill our fascists.

P.S. Saw a preview of the Ruby Ridge whitewash. It shows Sammy shorn like a skinhead. I wouldn't be suprised to see a swastika tatoo right where the bullet goes in.

I generally don't go hunting on the radio. When I travel I find a lot of good stuff but it fades with the miles in my mirror. Hamblin's writing isn't memorable, but I'll take a closer look. I liked Charles Adler, even got on 3-4 times, but he quit radio for TV and I haven't heard of him since. Did a lot of ATF-FBI parodies.

Have yopu not heard them by choice or are they just not in your area? Go www.hamblin.com when you got nothing else to do. His radio show is a hoot. The guy doesn't hold back.

I can't agree with him all the time, but he's on top of what's happening.

One of the things that has always irritated me about Rush is desire to maintain a distance between himself and the misdeeds of Federal Law Agents. It's as though thats where he draws the line. IMO if we're going to fix the Gov't, we have to fix ALL the Gov't.... and if any of it ever needed fixing, it's the ATF and the IRS, and the FBI needs a real thorough examination also.

Rush is good at what he does and is good for an opposing view of the leftist establishment. Where he seeks to serve the party line, I find GG Liddy much more for the "average joe" and not hesitant to attack any part or party for the slightest infraction. Have you had the good fortune to hear Ken Hamblin?

Heard Rush's take on the ATF riot in Missouri. He got the outrage level right, but as usual his scope was too narrow.

Law enforcement got its foot in the door for this kind of behavior years ago, but the blood isn't only on the Fed's front porch. For Rush to have any integrity on this issue he must point out the patterns of similar abuses throughout American history since the rise of Wall Street.

There was murder and mayhem committed against Labor by many a LOCAL "authority," as well as against Civil Rights and Peace activists. Indeed, Federal agents went after these groups too at the behest of various political figures.

Unfortunately Rush is a very discriminating ox. When other oxes get gored he'll figure out a way to make it sound as if they deserved it. But that's not the way America is supposed to be. We believe in EQUALITY under the law so no American should have to endure this flagrant fascism no matter from where it comes, Federal, State or local. It exists and must be stamped out.

Rush is too arrogant to realize that in unity there is strength. If we truly want to stop the ATF and FBI from abusing us we need to stand in alliance with others who share a common victimization by those in power.

This doesn't jibe with Rush's larger (Republican) agenda so he sticks with the tried and true sterile formula of toothless resistance to tyranny. Its easy to see we STILL have tyranny AND its getting worse, (except for the rich.)

A Poet from Missouri once described it: "Shape without form, shade without colour, Paralysed force, gesture without motion.....This is the way the world ends, Not with a bang but a whimper."

What Hollywood actor recommends to the American People that they take their $$ out of relatively safe investments like savings and T-bills and put it into a stockmarket AT its historic high.

The fund managers and brokers don't tell the investors that the market is volatile at best and absolutely and without any doubt due for a serious correction. Most People are not financially sophisticated and will follow the advice of brokers and others who reap a profit whichever way the prices go. Corporations advertise themselves on TV, especially on news programs, seeking investors with phrases like "the company for the future." Its all legal but its not right.

The talking heads you mention are an example of the conditioning our People have been subjected to over the last several decades. The People no longer think, just react and follow the crowd: "Everyone's getting a second mortgage to buy Mutuals, so I will too." All the salesmanship is one-sided, urging folks to buy but not informing them of possible consequences, and as you say, the rich know enough to profit big by this. Who pays for this conditioning? Wall Street. Who profits buy it? Wall Street. Who loses? America.

The current Administration is only up to its armpits in Wall Street sleeze. The prior Administration was in up to its eyeballs and it was THEM who arranged, supervised and covered up the two murders at Ruby Ridge.

Wall Street wants to break People to its saddle, to separate them from Freedom and the traditional values of Main Street capitalism. State socialism is the concentration of economic power in the State while corporate capitalism is the concentration of economic power in Wall Street. EITHER method of concentration is detrimental to the well being of the American public. Clinton has more Wall Streeters than Bush and his ACTIONS (not his words) determine on which side he stands. His extension of MFN to the PRC shows his true colors: he has abandoned traditional liberal compassion and concern for human rights to Wall Street's desire to make a buck.

Whatever whisps of "socialism" you see emanating from the White House are just a sop to his left wing and to provide jobs for "liberal" activists who want personal political power MORE than they want social, political and economic Justice.
