Hi John,

A few weeks ago, a fellow (Rick Gombas I believe) posted a note that we'd have less of an immigration problem if there weren't jobs for them here, as in employers not hiring them. I agreed with that, and with what you are saying here.

You are correct in saying that if employer of illegals were hit where it hurts, in the wallet, it would make them alot more leary to hire illegals. And honestly, I don't see why this would be so tough to implement. In the short and long term both I feel it would save us all alot of hassle and money.

Take care,

Greg B.
